Soviet Missiles Believed Used

... TO SINK DESTROYER

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP)—Two blockbusting Egyptian missiles shattered the prize Israeli destroyer Elath and a third fatal missile 2½ hours later smashed into her as she burned, hurling the captain from the bridge into the sea with a broken back, Israeli accounts said Sunday.

The surprise assault Saturday night sank the destroyer, killing 15 of her crew of 202, wounding 48 more and leaving 38 unaccounted for, Israeli military officers said.

Angered

Israel was stunned and angered at the attack that destroyed the pride of its tiny navy. In New York, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said the incident was the "most flagrant and grave violation" so far of the ceasefire agreement that ended the June 5-10 Middle East war.

Jubilant was reported among some Egyptians on Cairo streets Sunday morning as news of the incident spread. The Egyptian government said the Elath was inside Egypt's 12-mile limit of territorial waters.

In a note to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, Egypt said the alleged intrusion by the Elath forced the Egyptian navy to open fire, the semiofficial Egyptian Middle East news agency said Sunday night.

3 Direct Hits

In Tel Aviv, Brig. Gen. Shlomo Errel, commander of the Israeli navy, told a news conference the refitted former British warship took three direct hits from the missiles before sinking and a fourth missile exploded in the water among Israeli seamen who had abandoned ship.

The missiles apparently were Soviet-built and launched from Egyptian ships in Port Said, Israelis said. The first two green-colored missiles, trailing white vapor, struck the Elath and turned her into a mass of flames and twisted steel.

The radio was knocked out and the helpless, blazing ship could not call for help during a 2½-hour fight to save her. Radio contact was established just before the death blow came. At 8 p.m. a third missile smashed into the ship and the captain was hurled from the bridge into the sea with a broken back.

'Finished Then'

"I knew we were finished then," a young survivor said. "The ship shivered and began to roll over." The wounded executive officer quickly sent off a last message: "Hit me. Abandoning ship."

A few minutes later, a fourth missile exploded among the men struggling in the water and the crushing blast killed many.

Errel expressed the belief the missiles were radar controlled, surface-to-surface, given to the Egyptians by the Soviet Union.

Soviet Ships

"We believe they are Soviet missiles fired from Soviet ships supplied to the Egyptian navy," he said.

He added the missiles had one-ton warheads and a range of about 25 miles.

The Elath was one of two destroyers in the tiny Israeli navy. Destroyers are the nation's largest warships. The Elath's sister ship is the Yaffo, the former British Zofia.

Errel contended the Israeli vessel was patrolling 13½ miles off the Israeli-occupied Sinai Peninsula in the Mediterranean when she came under attack from afar. Survivors said they saw no Egyptian vessels in the vicinity and expressed the belief the missiles were fired from Egyptian vessels in Port Said Harbor at the entrance of the Suez Canal.

Junior High Students Follow Stock Market

By LUCY OLSON

"I lost $500 on the market today" and "that stock worries me, it's been going down for some time now" are remarks usually confined to financial circles.

Lately, however, terms like these have been creeping into the conversation of social studies students at Millard Leffler.

At the beginning of the school year, each eighth grader was given a hypothetical $10,000 to invest. And with the help of the New York Stock Exchange list in the newspaper, the students have been investing and charting the course of their stocks ever since.

How do the youngsters select their stocks? Here are some of the reasons they give:

—record company shares: "People buy a lot of records."

—office machines: "They seem to manufacture a lot of stuff."

—any high priced stock: "They seem to pay bigger dividends."

And what causes a student to contemplate selling?

—"That stock has been going up like crazy — it can't last."

—"I'm getting tired of those shares — they always close unchanged."

All this may sound highly unscientific to a seasoned investor but so far, none of the students has lost his shirt on the market and some have even made a tidy profit.

However, the ones who have gained the most won't be known until the completion of the project and it won't necessarily be the ones who made the most money.

The real winners will be the students who'll turn in the neatest and most accurate chart and records of their investment career.

Reuther Expects Work By Thursday

Detroit (AP)—United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther anticipates striking Ford workers will begin returning to their jobs Thursday under a new contract which he describes as "the largest economic package" ever for his union.

It provides a guaranteed annual income, and it represents an early multimillion-dollar added outlay for Ford. Ford estimates the new contract will raise wages 45½ to 90½ cents hourly over its three-year span, the boost depending upon a worker's current pay scale. The union figures the over-all gain for Ford's 20,000 skilled tradesmen will average $1.02 hourly.

Neither side, however, will put a price tag on the total package of wages and fringe benefits.

Reuther said the new contract will not require any price increase in Ford cars. Malcolm L. Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations, declined to be pinned down on the question.

Ford announced an average $114 increase on 1968 models in September.

The UAW struck Ford in search of a pattern-setting contract which it will take to General Motors and Chrysler, where its members continued working without contract protection. Reuther said he would be calling on one or the other in "a few days," but refused to say which.

The Ford agreement was announced early Sunday, 46 days after the union's 160,000 Ford members walked out across the country and shut down the nation's second largest automaker.

The Associated Press learned shortly after 3 a.m. the two sides would announce agreement on the pact, most details of which had been revealed by the AP Friday night. The official announcement came at about 4:30 a.m. The new contract still must be ratified by the strikers to become effective. Local unions will vote Tuesday and Wednesday. Anticipating acceptance, Reuther said he expects some workers will be returning Thursday, and many more on Friday.

Whether new at-the-plant agreements, which supplement the national contract, will be unsettled then and prevent some plants returning to work is an unanswered question.

Ford won a major victory in putting a cap on the amount which a cost-of-living escalator can carry wages upward. Reuther also lost his demand for equal pay for Canadian Ford workers.

The new contract provides an immediate across-the-board pay increase of 20 cents hourly, plus an additional 30 cents for skilled tradesmen. Wages go up another 3% in both the second and third years.

Under the new guaranteed annual income plan, a laid-off Ford worker with seven years seniority, can get 95% of his straight-time pay, less $7.50 weekly, for up to a full year.

The guarantee is 75% for those with four to seven years, and 25% for those with one to three years.

The $7.50 deduction during layoff represents transportation and lunch money, job-connected expenses.

Pensions for both present and future retirees are increased immediately from $4.25 monthly for each year of service to $5.25, and beginning in 1969 pensions for the first time will be tied to a worker's pay scale.

The scale, beginning in 1969, will range from $5.50 to $6, with the larger pension going to the highest paid; the smaller to the lowest paid.

This marks the first time in the auto industry that pensions have been tied to wages.

'U.S. Neglects Morals'

Sofia Borisovna Shvedova, the director of Kindergarten 67, a determined, soft-spoken plumpish, middle-aged woman with an unruly shock of wiry, almost black hair, said in polite reproach: "I feel that the United States is neglecting the moral education of children."

Soviet children in nursery school begin to be made aware of the importance of a strong and pure character. This, she said, is best accomplished through stories and songs about the boyhood life and struggle of Lenin.

Given a chance to reform American preschool education, Mrs. Shvedova would prescribe exactly what the Daughters of the American Revolution would order. Nor is this surprising; for Mrs. Shvedova is, of course, a daughter of the Soviet revolution.

It would be misleading to suggest that this ideological conservatism interferes with the operation of a technically exemplary pre-school education.

Female Assessor Holds No Edge With Taxpayer

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

"You've got to look like a woman, act like a lady, think like a man and work like a dog."

This opinion was expressed at the Nebraska County Assessors Association meeting in Omaha by Omaha City Councilwoman Mrs. Betty Abbott about women working in a so-called "man's field."

And this practice is followed by an ever-increasing number of women who now total 17 filling the office of county assessor in Nebraska. Advance

Mrs. Joy Nixon, Dakota County assessor and secretary of the state association, says the trend seems to be that of women deputy assessors throughout the state becoming the officeholder upon the retirement, resignation or death of the assessor.

Starting as a deputy in 1951 and becoming assessor in 1955 upon the retirement of the then assessor, Mrs. Nixon feels that women are on an even par with male office holders.

"I don't think we're at either an advantage or disadvantage as women officials," she said.

Not Popular

As assessors, Mrs. Nixon said neither women nor men are popular and it doesn't seem to make much difference to that complaining taxpayer what sex the assessor is if the taxpayer is unhappy with his assessment.

"They seem to resent that symbol of authority, and whether it be a woman or man who holds that authority, resentment may exist," she said.

Mrs. Nixon and County Assessors Elsie Reinsch and Clara Olson from Fillmore and Cass Counties, respectively, all agreed that an assessor must send the taxpayer out of his office "smiling."

Informed

They pointed out that they felt the key to the success of any assessor in dealing with the public is to see that the taxpayers are fully informed.

"If they're fully informed—which is difficult to accomplish at times — they're easier to deal with," Mrs. Nixon added.

Mrs. Nixon, who is known among her fellow-assessors as one who gets things done, has three full-time employees in her office.

In the 16 years in that office, the Dakota County assessor has seen the assessed value of the county rise from some $15 million to $28 million with the county gradually changing from a primarily rural area to an urban area with the influx of industry.

Previously Untouched Naval Yard Is Bombed

Saigon (AP)—U.S. Navy jets attacked a previously untouched naval yard seven miles outside Haiphong on Sunday and also bombed the railroad yards near the center of North Vietnam's main port city.

The Navy fliers claimed they inflicted heavy damage to a drydock and an oil depot and destroyed a patrol torpedo boat at the navy yard northeast of Haiphong.

They reported heavily damaging the rail yards 1.7 miles from the center of Haiphong, a target that had been damaged in earlier raids.

As the tempo of the air war over the North picked up after several days of typhoon weather, the relative lull persisted in ground fighting in South Vietnam. No major engagements were reported by the American or Vietnamese military commands on Sunday.

The Army reported the arrival of the first contingent of a 3,600-man American infantry brigade to reinforce U.S. forces in the northern provinces. The arrival of the full 198th Light Infantry Brigade will increase the strength of U.S. forces in South Vietnam to about 467,000.

Along with the Navy strikes in and around Haiphong, Air Force fighter-bombers from Thailand bases attacked a railroad bridge, rail lines and a missile site above Hanoi.

Pilots reported hitting both approaches to the Lang Lau railroad bridge 36 miles north of the Communist capital and also a new bypass bridge nearby.

News Summary

(C) New York Times News Service

Tel Aviv — The commanding officer of the Israeli navy charged that Russian missiles, probably the most sophisticated type in Moscow's arsenal, had been used by Egypt in the offshore sinking of the Israeli destroyer Elath. It was said that the Israeli ship, with 202 officers and men aboard, had been hit in rapid succession by missiles fired from an Egyptian gunboat in Port Said harbor, about 13.5 miles from the spot where the Elath went down. (More on Page 1.)

UAR, Britain Agree

Cairo — It was reported that Britain and the United Arab Republic had decided to restore diplomatic relations, broken in 1965. The nations are expected to exchange ambassadors before the end of the year. Britain's primary motive, sources said, was to put herself in a position to persuade President Nasser to reopen the Suez Canal. (More on Page 14.)

New Scroll Found

Jerusalem — An archeology professor has announced the discovery of a new "Dead Sea" religious scroll, a 26-foot-long parchment said to be the longest ever uncovered. The scroll, found at the northern end of the Dead Sea, was claimed to have been written between the second half of the first century B.C. and the beginning of the first century A.D. (More on Page 14.)

Protests Cause Concern

Washington — The United States capital is a city accustomed to demonstrations and disorders, but the events over the weekend appeared to leave everybody concerned — government officials, militant young activists and moderate young students — with a sense of brooding and lack of accomplishment.

War Protests Continue

Washington — Antiwar demonstrators continued their demonstrations at the Pentagon despite more than 400 arrests and the desertion by all but a hard core of youthful militants. As night fell after a chilly previous night and continued arrests, the ranks of the demonstrators on the mall of the Defense Department headquarters thinned to about 500 persons. During the day President Johnson and his family left the White House briefly to attend church services. There were no incidents, but the church and streets in all directions for several blocks were heavily manned by uniformed police. (More on Page 14.)

War Supporters March

New York — Thousands of persons marched in the Bronx, in Brooklyn and in suburban areas to show their support for the men fighting in Vietnam. Parades, speeches and a vigil in Manhattan's Battery Park marked the occasion, and thousands of motorists continued to drive with their headlights on to indicate their support of the call for patriotic demonstrations.

MPA Files Protest

New York — The Motion Picture Association of America has protested to the Justice Department over the rapidly expanding plans of the Columbia Broadcasting System and the American Broadcasting Company to produce feature length films for showing in theaters. The protest was said to presage a corporate struggle involving the giants of the entertainment business.

The Stephenson County Illinois Extension Service has started a program that could work just as well in many counties throughout the midwest.

Extension workers in this county found they had many lady landowners; in fact, out of 282 owners, 255 of them are lady landowners right in the county. The lady farm owners had farms ranging in size from 40 to 395 acres. The size of the farm and ranch operations would be much higher as you moved west or southwest.

Ownership and management problems encountered by the Illinois women were many. The death of a husband, inheritance or other reasons for acquiring the property were given.

So Stephenson County, Illinois, set up a course to help equip lady landowners with basic farm management information. Even though many of the ladies hired professional farm managers to look after the land, the course gave them a better understanding of the problems and importance of using modern chemicals, fertilizers and better seed on their land.

The outcome of the course was interesting: every one of the women who took the course wanted to have another course.

Some of the most wanted subjects were estate planning, agricultural law, methods of selling farms, insurance programs, soil management, investment possibilities, current leasing practices, fertilizer tips and recreation possibilities.

A sobering fact in the discussion of future world food needs is that farmers in some of our underdeveloped countries could probably produce more food than the city people can afford to buy.

Under such conditions we are only kidding ourselves when we expect huge strides in our export business.

Some studies on food point out there are few places, if any, in the world today where a person with money cannot buy food. This could indicate that our shortage of food is more a problem of poverty than a problem of food supply.

There are many problems facing the cattleman in addition to drought: cost of production and competition from substitute products and imports.

A review of what the cattle industry will be faced with in the next 10 to 15 years was outlined by E. H. Shoemaker Jr., of North Platte, president of the Nebraska Stock Growers Association, at the 1967 Coordinated Beef Improvement Conference in Denver.

Shoemaker said that some of the serious problems facing the industry are included in enacted and proposed legislation at both state and national levels.

tical application of minimum wage laws to ranching operations, the growing trend of attempting to use inflated land sale prices for tax valuations rather than the production factor and the threat of adding a capital gains tax to the already top-heavy inheritance tax schedule on estates.

Other warnings issued by Shoemaker on legislative problems included the more restrictive use of public lands at higher costs for the cattle producer, massive school reorganization efforts and urban spending programs detrimental to rural areas and a current proposal that a National Farm Bargaining Board be established patterned after the National Labor Relations Board to eventually permit federal control of livestock production and marketing.

Shoemaker says the public image is not that the average livestock producer is vulnerable because of comparatively large tracts of land necessary even for a modest operation.

Public Unaware
"The general public does not realize the problems involved of proper grazing use, stocking rates, water supply, winter feed, shortage of adequate labor, higher taxes and operational costs and the investment in machinery and equipment required today," said Shoemaker.

He says there is a need for better communication and a closer working relationship among all segments of the livestock industry and that our marketing system must be modernized and products sold openly and competitively on the basis of quality, taste

Interest In Voting Off In Vietnam

New York Times Service

Saigon — South Vietnam chose a lower legislative house Sunday in an election that failed to arouse much public interest.

Preliminary estimate suggested that the turnout of voters had fallen considerably short of the 83% that cast ballots on Sept. 3 for president and for the senate. It was the fifth election in less than 14 months.

Figures released early Monday morning by the special commissariat for administration, which managed the elections, showed that 76.4% of the 5,853,251 registered voters had gone to the polls. In the capital, officials said, fewer than 60% of those eligible voted.

An informal tally kept by the American embassy indicated that the official figures might be inflated. With 45 of 53 constituencies reporting, U.S. analysts said, the turnout appeared to be no greater than 70%.

The tabulation of returns was proceeding slowly. At midnight Sunday, winners had been declared in only eight provinces and cities.

Among the winners in these constituencies were a large number of candidates previously involved in politics, government or the military.

TRAPPED BY ELEPHANT

Sandra Baughn, 7, of Fort Collins was the center of attention during a shopping trip with her mother, Mrs. James C. Baughn. Sandra spotted a plastic elephant on display at a shopping plaza in Fort Collins and in her curiosity got stuck in the curl of the elephant's trunk. She was freed after about 20 minutes.

Copper Strike Sees 100th Fruitless Day

Salt Lake City (AP) — The nationwide copper strike droned through its 100th day Sunday, amid speculation it may only be somewhere near the halfway point.

With 50,000 out of work and more than 95% of production halted, the situation at all major bargaining sites was virtually the same; no negotiations in progress, none scheduled, and no sign of softened positions by either side.

The copper workers, strike-hardened by numerous past walkouts, maintain they can endure what appears to be a company-union waiting game.

"No one out here's hurting," insists Pat Colonna, 49, a member of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

When the strike began, the Commerce Department estimated stockpiles totaled 60 to 90 days supply. This week the government said reduced purchases of foreign copper had forestalled an emergency situation.

Officials now see no danger point, at least for the rest of this year.

appeal and good nutrition. In outlining other requirements desired, Shoemaker called for:
—A workable supply management program that is voluntary and acceptable to all segments of the industry.
—More efficient production of cattle and better land usage.
—Evaluations of feeding practices and capital management advice from knowledgeable financial sources.

Greenbugs Hit Fields In Custer

By The Associated Press
Greenbugs were reported Sunday to be especially bad in new winter wheat fields in Custer County.
Custer County Agent Bill Pedersen said about one-fourth to one-half of the county's 45,000 acres had been sprayed. He called it unusual "in this country to have greenbugs, in the fall especially."
In Lincoln County, farmers were advised to look out for the bugs in their seedlings. In Dawson County, greenbugs were showing up on wheat in the southwest area. Perkins County is more fortunate, with County Agent Larry Hendrix reporting no infestations yet.
Lincoln County Agent Fritz Adams said milo harvest yields were severely cut by September's freeze. Yields have been running from 20 to 25 bushels per acre.
Pedersen said milo had been the focal point of the biggest effort in Custer County's harvest. He said there had been some pretty good yields, but not as good as if the frost had held off.
Dawson County's corn yield was reported down 10 to 15% from last year because of the September freeze. County Agent Harold Stevens said about 60 to 65% of the crop was mature when the freeze hit.
In all four counties, farmers complained of wet corn.

Motorcyclist Dies After Cycle Hits Advertising Sign

Prosser — A motorcycle accident about one mile north of here Sunday night claimed the life of Charles Hawkes, 27, of Wood River.
Adams County Deputy Sheriff Bobby Henry said Hawkes was killed when the motorcycle on which he was riding left a curve, went into a ditch and hit an advertising sign.
Another passenger on the motorcycle, Robert Murphy of Grand Island, was hospitalized in Hastings and reported in satisfactory condition.
Hawkes' death brings the 1967 Nebraska highway toll to 348, compared to 344 on this date a year ago.

Volunteer Firemen Elect Imperial Man

Columbus — Arthur R. Stevens, of Imperial, has been elected president of the Nebraska State Volunteer Firemen's Association to succeed Walter Garbers, of Columbus.
Robert L. Larsen, of Gering, was named first vice president and Ken Schwartz, of Red Cloud, second vice president.
Russell D. Salak, of Schuyler, was re-elected secretary-treasurer, a post he has held since 1942, and the Rev. Walter C. Rundin, of Wahoo, was re-elected chaplain.

About 800 firemen and members of the auxiliary attended the three-day convention which ended with an afternoon parade and a banquet Saturday night. The banquet speaker was Dr. Anthony Marinaccio, president of Hiram Scott College at Scottsbluff.

Featured speaker Saturday morning was Marvin Travis, corporate safety director of the Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha. He warned the firemen not to become complacent and to guard against habit.
The auxiliary named Mrs. Victor Nuss, of Bridgeport, president, succeeding Mrs. Glenn Smith, of Columbus. Other officers included: Mrs.

Board Approves $250,000 Addition To Crowell Home

Blair — The Manor board has approved construction of a $250,000 wing to the Crowell Memorial Home here.
The addition will have 17,000 square feet and will include 25 resident rooms, a chapel, lounge, storage rooms and offices. Future construction of eight more residential rooms is allowed for in construction plans.
Letting of bids is scheduled for Jan., 1968.

Corn Field Days Set For Tuesday

Holdrege — Centennial corn plot field days are planned for Phelps and Gosper County farmers Tuesday.
County Agent Roland Cookley said the field day will begin at the Louis Kash farm north of Elwood at 10 a.m. and at the Roy Waller farm north of Holdrege at 2 p.m.
The field events are planned for discussion of cultural and harvest practices used on the fields the past summer. The corn will be picked to determine yields on the centennial plots.
Although the plots will not yield 200 bushels per acre because of the climatic conditions the past year, Cookley said they will have excellent yields.

One Killed, 2 Injured In Air Mishap

Lexington — A 17-year-old Lexington girl died and two other persons were hospitalized Sunday as the result of the crash landing of a light plane near the Platte River Sunday afternoon.
Lila Wright, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wright, Jr., of Lexington, died in a Lexington hospital Sunday night of injuries suffered in the crash.
Robb Jeffrey, 28, the pilot and a Smithfield cattleman, was reported in serious condition, by his physician, in the Lexington hospital.
Another passenger, Steve McGee, 17, son of Dr. and Mrs. Dean A. McGee of Lexington, was reported in good condition.
Reports from the hospital were that Jeffrey and the two Lexington high school seniors were inspecting Jeffrey's cattle on Robb Island at the time of the crash.
Young McGee said he was thrown out of the plane. He said he went for help when he discovered Miss Wright and Jeffrey were unconscious.

Suit Charges Carpenter Corporation

Scottsbluff — Larry R. and Helen J. Taylor have filed suit in Scottsbluff District Court seeking damages and an injunction against Terry Carpenter, Inc.
The Taylors, who own a home in a subdivision known as Highland Park Second Addition adjacent to Terrytown, allege the corporation, a subdivision developer, imposed protective covenants insuring only one-family dwellings would be constructed in the subdivision.
The Taylors said they purchased their home from the corporation subject to those covenants. They charged the corporation is now offering to sell lots in the subdivision to the Scotts Bluff County Housing Authority on which to build multiple unit housing for low income families.
A copy of the alleged offer to sell, showing an asking price of $37,566, was attached to the suit. The lots, allegedly offered for sale, are adjacent to the Taylors' home.
State Sen. Terry Carpenter was identified as president of the corporation.

EVENTS
IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

So many things take place in the world that no one person could possibly know about them all. Travelers, for instance, might not be aware of the fact that they are less likely to be bumped now from an airplane on which they have reservations than has previously been the case.

This is so because the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) has inaugurated a new penalty system against the airlines for failure to honor reservations. The new penalty, now in effect, calls for refund of the passenger's ticket price plus his free transportation to the point of his destination within two hours after the original flight was due there.

People who have experienced the bumping technique will be delighted with this news. In such a bump, the airline simply refuses to recognize your reservation, telling you you failed to show up in time, your reservation was cancelled by someone a week ago or some other story.

Nothing is more frustrating than such a bump. In the end, your only choice is to submit to the decision of the company and make the best of it. But now things may be different.

Faced with a bump today, the traveler can inform the airline that he intends to exact the full penalty of CAB stipulations. Mention of the CAB alone is enough to shake up most airlines as they would just as soon stay clear of this agency.

In reporting on this new penalty provision, Congressional Quarterly fails to note how the traveler is to invoke it. Clearly, a traveler cannot avail himself of the two-hour delivery deadline unless the airline is willing to go along on it. The traveler hardly has time to get hold of the CAB for action.

But airlines have improved on this score and the new CAB ruling will probably bring further voluntary improvement.

"Congressional Quarterly notes that overselling of space is believed, to protect themselves (the airlines) against 'no shows,' persons who phone in for reservations but fail to show up at flight time."

And since we criticize the airlines for overselling, a word can be said against the "no shows" who make life miserable for everyone. The "no show" has to be a thoughtless and inconsiderate individual most of the time.

He is a fellow who makes indiscriminate reservations just to cover any and all eventualities or possibilities. Anyone might become a "no show" now and then for good cause but too much of it is entirely without justification.

In defense of the airlines, it might be pointed out that they have no recourse against the customer who treats the reservation system as his personal toy. The issue is one of common decency and consideration and there will always be some people with no understanding of either.

Speaking of flying, a few new terms are with us today. Ever hear of a "man-boom" or a "bang-zone"?

The terms are used by the Citizens League Against the Sonic Boom. A man-boom is described as the individual event of inflicting one sonic boom on one person.

The League reports that the average amount of damage per million man-booms is about $600. That sounds reasonable enough until you learn from the organization that 150 supersonic planes in daily use on commercial airlines in the U.S. would create total damage of $1 million per day, figured conservatively.

This is in the form of damage to windows, plaster, etc., to say nothing of the shattered human nerves. The bang-zone is the area on each side of the path of flight which is hit by a sonic boom from a supersonic plane.

This being 25 miles on each side, the bang-zone of a sonic boom becomes a total of 50 miles. Wow! If the League is only half right, we wish them success in fighting the inauguration of supersonic aircraft of various kinds.

Americans Over-Ready To Believe Communists

WASHINGTON — There is an aspect of the so-called "credibility gap" that has some of the leading government officials puzzled and deeply concerned.

This has to do with an amazing and seemingly increasing number of Americans, to say nothing of untold thousands of persons in friendly countries overseas, who have become so receptive to communist propaganda concerning Vietnam.

Government professionals, career men who have no stake in domestic politics or the fortunes of President Johnson are appalled by the number of fellow Americans who, if given the choice, believe atrocity stories from Hanoi or Peking over diametrically opposite versions of Washington, be it from the White House, the Pentagon or the State Department.

Photographs of burned children and bedraggled Vietnam women with obviously hungry or undernourished babies in their arms from communist bloc sources are regarded by many Americans as generally representative of vicious American war effort in Southeast Asia.

Quite naturally the same communist bloc sources do not service photographs or articles dealing with cases in which the regular North Vietnamese army or members of the Viet Cong have pillaged villages in the South, beheaded village elders or chased family groups into the jungle.

Washington officials do not like to talk about it in public, but they are alarmed that a great many Americans are under the impression that the more brutal aspects of the war in Vietnam are the work of American troops.

One has only to travel away from Washington and talk with people at random to discover that a large number of Americans are more receptive to war accounts from Hanoi than they are to presentations by various departments in Washington.

Official versions of specific incidents in Vietnam are believed to have mixed reception among certain types of Americans for the reasons such as downright political irritation with the Johnson administration, annoyance at the slowly but steadily rising cost of living and the prospect of paying higher taxes.

One possible attempt to remedy the situation might lie in a national campaign of patriotism to counter some of the current, spreading protest movements. But here again the government is up against a difficult problem — how to promote patriotism (and thus support the effort in Vietnam) without being accused of trying to snuff out dissent.

"Why Cain't We Talk Over Our Differences Just Like Lynda, Luci, Lady Bird And I Used To?"

The Capitol A Showpiece

Well-deserved credit can often go unnoticed when it falls in an area that does not commonly meet with public discussion. Such is the case with the maintenance in recent years of the Nebraska State Capitol building, an architectural attraction of world renown.

Soon to leave office at the Capitol is State Building and Grounds Superintendent Robert Newell. He will leave after serving longer than any other person in that capacity, more than six years.

He leaves behind him a record of care and improvement of the Statehouse that should be appreciated by all citizens. In all respects, Newell has never been satisfied with just sweeping the place up. He has recognized that modern maintenance is much more than this.

He has maintained a structurally sound building in many respects, including encouragement and assistance in the recent exterior renovations. He has paid attention to murals and other aspects of the building that had become worn and unsightly over the years.

Newell has made use of lights at night, including lights on the Capitol dome at Christmas time. The landscaping of the Capitol grounds has been meticulous under Newell's care, providing an appropriate setting for the structure. The Capitol lawn today is the equal of any in the land.

During this time, the public has been encouraged to visit the Capitol and has been well served when doing so. In short, Newell has demonstrated the kind of pride in his work that will be very much to the credit and benefit of the state for a long time to come.

Generals Out Of Line

During World War I, French Premier Clemenceau wisely said that "War is too serious a matter to be entrusted to generals." His words are of particular interest today, as the U.S. plunges deeper and deeper into the Vietnam involvement.

For instance, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was asked what he thought of a policy to limit the air bombing to south of the demilitarized zone. Bunker replied, "In my judgment, this proposal is dead. It sort of burgeoned for a while; it died off and except for an occasional piece in the paper, I have seen no reference to it recently. Certainly in the circles that I have access to, there is no discussion of this concept anymore."

Perhaps Wheeler has forgotten that he is not a statesman. He's a general, and as such is committed to the belief that arms offer a solution to struggles that may be political in nature. He has stated that the U.S. must close the harbor of Haiphong, limit bombing restrictions and continue bombing without interruption.

Such attempts by military men to influence foreign policy are not new, of course. General Douglas MacArthur tried it in the Korean War, and was promptly and justifiably fired. Nor is Wheeler the only guilty one. Other military men — Lt. Gen. James Gavin, Gen. Matthew Ridgway, and Marine Gen. David Shoup — have all stated that they oppose U.S. policy in Vietnam. Their opinions are valuable, of course, but the decision on how to pursue the war in Vietnam is obviously a political one and the generals constitute a risk in offering public opinions except on matters of strategy within the over-all plan of the President.

President Eisenhower warned of the evil of a military-industrial complex. Statements by generals which attempt to influence foreign policy are examples of this evil.

Non-Commercial TV Network Advances; Public Reaction And Approval Important

WASHINGTON — The House of Representatives approved last week the creation of a non-commercial television network. The bill went through unnoticed in the shuffle, like the bill in Lincoln's time to create the land grant universities of America, and if the people pay any attention to it, which they aren't at the moment, it could be almost as important an educational force in the future as our great state universities have been in the past.

The purpose of this bill is to create a Public Television Network, free of commercial compulsions and government control, which will concentrate on what is important and enduring in American life, rather than what is commercially successful.

It is an effort, in short, to grapple with a practical problem: to portray the fundamental and not merely the dramatic or commercially useful aspects of American life; not to replace but to supplement commercial television; to fill the gap between what commercial televisions cannot do because it must reach the widest mass audience, and what non-commercial television cannot do now because it simply does not have the money, the facilities or the personnel to do it.

The need for creating a non-commercial network, free of advertising and political control has been recognized by a remarkable company of Americans. Frank Stanton of the Columbia Broadcasting System has not only approved the experiment but committed a million dollars to get it started. That remarkable man, John Gardner, former head of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, and now secretary of health education and welfare in Washington, originally arranged to put up the funds to study the problem. McGeorge Bundy, president of the Ford Foundation, persuaded his organization to finance a Public Broadcasting Laboratory under National Educational Television to demonstrate the possibilities of a television network while the Congress was debating government support of the project.

Meanwhile this concept or dream of a network free to deal with what endures rather than merely what sells, mobilized the energies of men like James B. Conant, former president of Harvard, Terry Sanford, former governor of North Carolina, and James R. Killian, Jr., former president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. But there are now problems of the most fundamental nature.

President Johnson has done a magnificent job of leadership on this whole project. He has seen the prospects and the problems. He and his staff headed by Douglas Cater in the White House have elbowed the legislation through the committees, concentrating on the principle and the authorization of a non-commercial network rather than the appropriate

By DON WALTON
Like Secretary of Defense McNamara and Tulsa's football coach, Governor Tiemann obviously believes that the best defense is a good offense.

Tiemann took his show on the road last week. At three town hall meetings with Nebraskans, the governor scorned the role of tax and spending apologist which his opponents would like to see him assume.

Instead, Tiemann jumped to the offensive as an advocate of state progress. He pointed to results of a broad-based tax base and accelerated spending, arguing that the returns — in terms of future prosperity and a richer life — will far outweigh the costs.

Education and mental health — two intangibles of a richer life — received the greatest emphasis.

And Tiemann, never one to sit on his current score, plugged hard for voter approval next year of constitutional amendments to lower the voting age to 19 and to authorize revenue bond financing of highway construction.

From the moment he landed in Alliance a week ago, after a two-hour flight over the incredibly flat open spaces of central Nebraska and the wrinkled Sandhills of the west, Tiemann was the advocate — not the defender — of his administrations programs.

University of Nebraska students, surveyed by the Student Union's talks and topics committee as to their preferences on possible campus speakers this year, named Dr. Timothy Leary and Allen Ginsberg as their leading choices.

Preferred political speakers were Ronald Reagan and the Senators Kennedy, Robert and Edward.

Omaha sophomore Carol Madison, committee assistant chairman, said a whole host of major political figures, including the three preferred choices, have declined invitations to speak on the NU campus.

Still listed as possibilities are Senator Hatfield and Congressman Ford. Senator McGovern will appear on campus today (under different auspices) to discuss Vietnam.

Finishing up: —Congressman Denney says a sample of returns from the 120,000 questionnaires which he mailed to First District residents indicates that 65% to 67% of them believe the U.S. should accelerate its bombing policy in Vietnam.

—It's gonna be mighty hard for Democratic delegates to even get into their convention hall in Chicago next August if the mood of Negro Americans has not changed within the year. LBJ's site selection is really tempting trouble.

—Lincoln airline boardings are soaring, according to the Chamber of Commerce. Frontier is up 34%, and United has zoomed 100%. Where's everyone going?

—Only 9% of the nation's college students believe business leaders are public-spirited citizens, according to a survey undertaken by a New York management consulting firm.

—National election statistics indicate that Governor Tiemann gained the fourth highest percentage in the nation among gubernatorial winners of 1966.

—The mobile food irradiation unit which was on display in front of the Statehouse earlier this month was halted at a state weighing station and found to be overweight, we are told.

—Okay, tell us how many electric power suppliers operate in Nebraska. Would you believe 198?

—Nebraska Democrats will probably hold a state central committee meeting in an outstate community late this year to begin gearing up for 1968.

—Hope it doesn't alarm Skelly too much, but we saw a foreigner purchasing some of its gasoline the other day.

—One reason Nebraska state senators prefer their non-partisan unicameral system was best expressed by the two New York constitutional convention delegates who visited Lincoln last spring: "The most striking observation which can be made about the unicameral legislature of Nebraska is that it is in fact its own master."

—Quoting from a Department of Housing and Urban Development report: "Action-oriented orchestration of innovative inputs, generated by escalation of meaningful indigenous decision-making dialogue, focusing on viable urban infrastructure..."

—State Motor Vehicles Director Larry Johns says his office has discovered two maiden Lincoln ladies who operate a car together. Only one of them can drive, he said, but only the other one can see.

—Asked how much state senators should receive in salaries, George Gerdes told the Alliance town hall meeting: "We'll take whatever the people give us."

—California's Legislature will reappear that state's 38 congressional districts at a special session beginning November 6. If lawmakers don't do the job, the State Supreme Court announced that it will — and set a deadline of December 7.

More Irrigation

Hastings, Neb.

There are reports that with the construction of the Mid-state Reclamation Project, several thousand acres of Nebraska land would be put under irrigation, and a tremendous amount of wealth would come into Nebraska. Evidently those who make such glowing reports do not realize that Nebraska farmers and owners of Nebraska farm land are being paid for taking feed grain acreage out of production.

According to latest reports, the acreage of feed grains taken out of production in 1968 will be twice as many as in 1967.

In view of this and the fact that Nebraska farmers should be getting a better price for the production of 1967 crops, the idea of putting more acres under irrigation would add to the difficulty of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and farmers' organizations finding markets for the surplus feed grains.

Instead of creating more irrigation districts, the project should be more valuable for flood control. Nebraska is not in need of irrigated acreage for wheat, as the production of wheat on dry land produces so much wheat that Nebraska growers would like to know where to find a market.

Hard Lesson

Lincoln, Neb.

I hope by writing this that I can save somebody some money by not making the mistake I did ordering items through the mail.

A mail order place in St. Cloud, Minn., kept sending pamphlets through the mail and making the deal sound good by giving free gifts with it. I sent for a sabre saw, the total price of which was $33. The guarantee was for 90 days. The saw went bad the second time I used it. I wrote them within 30 days. A total of four letters was written within the 90-day period.

I finally got an answer after the 90 days were up. Their reply was that the time was up and they wouldn't do anything about it.

I have learned my lesson and will always shop at home from now on.

Street Parking

Lincoln, Neb.

We noticed the letter entitled "Parking Situation" in the October 19 Star, and would like to add our comment to those expressed.

This is becoming an increasing problem on all the narrow side streets of Lincoln. The bus routes are especially bad, as the drivers will attest. Only this week a little girl almost ran into the side of a bus as it made its way between parked cars on both sides of the street.

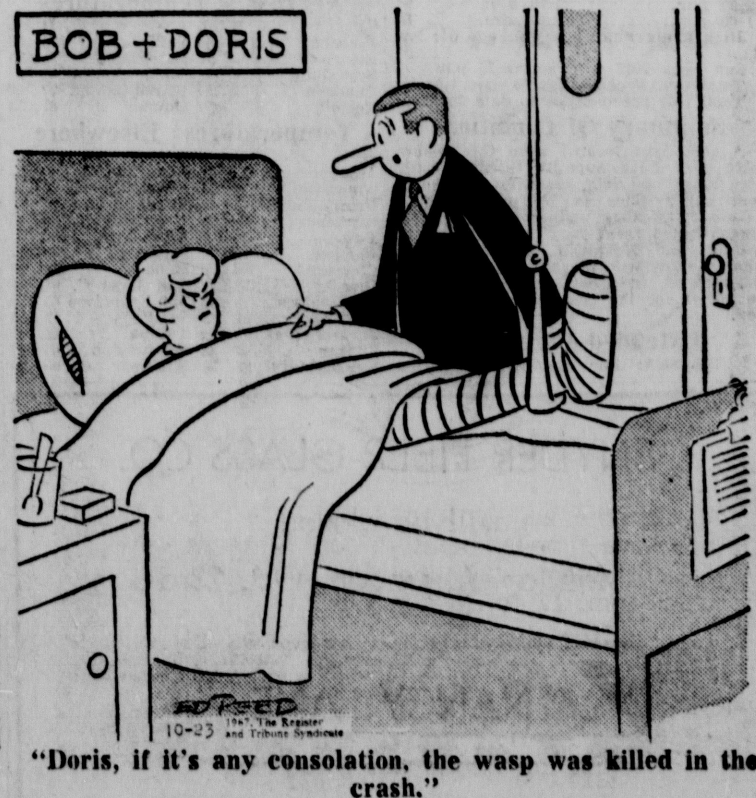

We, too, have to travel about four blocks through a narrow street to get home. Cars are parked on both sides and to meet an oncoming car, one has to stop. If you reach a stretch where the cars are parked closely, the situation becomes a sticky one.

Why can't parking on one side of the street only be put in, on all these narrow streets? Some street parking may be necessary, but certainly the most of it is not.

MRS. R.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed. Reed

"Doris, if it's any consolation, the wasp was killed in the crash."

Soviet Nursery School Is Strictly Scheduled

Soviet Union is a composite of genuine love for children, extreme protectiveness, and early inculcation of the importance of the group above the individual.

Kindergarten 67, with 150 children, is a typical institution for youngsters from going-on-2 to 7. Though far superior to many kindergartens in the provinces, it is by no means an exceptional showcase.

The youngsters are delivered by their parents between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning. They are assigned to six groups of about 25 children each. Breakfast, at 8:15, is the first of three substantial meals served during the day.

Each group is supervised by one teacher and an aide.

Strict Schedule

Although the atmosphere is free and easy, the day is organized according to a strict timetable. The younger children almost always work in pairs or small groups.

Each year the work becomes a little more serious, and during the last year (when American children would be in first grade) there is considerable stress on counting up to 10, recognition of letters, and tentative experimentation with reading.

The general impression, despite fairly structured activities, is one of more emphasis on play than academic learning. While the new University-educated middle class of Soviet parents is eagerly pushing for an earlier start (with a premature eye, as in the United States, on university admission), conservative early-childhood educators in the Soviet Union so far have largely resisted the pressures.

Attendance is not compulsory, and fees range from 2 to 12 rubles ($2.20 to $13.20) a month, according to parents' income.

Most kindergartens have a small dormitory with white metal and white-sheeted cribs. Youngsters may board at school on weekdays, and even nonboarders may be left overnight if the parents want to have a late evening at the theater.

Children 'Special'

A visitor to the Soviet Union learns quickly that children enjoy a very special status. Perhaps it is because adult life is, and has always been, so hard and drab that Russians lavish all the care they can afford on their children.

As obvious as the Russians' love for children is their extreme protectiveness.

Babies are wrapped in layers of blankets and older children still buttoned up in overcoats on warm spring days.

Americans who have had young children accompany them to the Soviet Union report that they have been publicly criticized by strangers if they permitted the youngsters to stray 20 or 30 yards while playing in the park.

Taught Method

While Russians overprotect and overpraise their children, they are taught to use as the principal form of discipline "temporary withdrawal of affection," as the manuals call it. Corporal punishment is severely frowned upon and, at best, considered frightfully lower-class.

Equally important is the early stress of group responsibility, even in nursery school, and of games and stories with a moral. Toddlers are often seen sharing even the play pen in groups of three or four.

"My group — right or wrong" is a fundamental moral concept and is made part of a Soviet youngster's reflexes from early nursery-school age.

Americans 'Beginning'

Mrs. Shvedova says Americans are "beginning to understand preschool education. You always thought we were just mean — locking up the kids and taking them away from their parents."

Yet, even this self-possessed educator had to concede that Russian parents experience similar pangs of guilt about even a temporary separation from their small children.

Only recently, she had to call a parents' meeting to deliver a stern lecture to mothers and fathers. Every evening, she explained, when the parents pick up their children, they bring them toys and candy bars.

"It is because they feel guilty for having left their children with us all day, and to get rid of their guilty conscience they spoil the children," she said.

"There was an old man of Khartoum
Who kept two tame sheep in his room,
"For he said, 'They remind me,
"Of one left behind me,
"But I cannot remember of whom."
If memory serves (and the service has been terrible lately), the time change from San Francisco to Tokyo is nine hours.

I have a little plastic wheel for figuring such things. But it has disappeared. I am for the land of cherry blossoms and suk i a k i today and have been trying to figure such things as mail and phone calls.

Such time changes subject you to "jet lag" — a new name for new ways man has found to bug himself.

What happens is your inner clock doesn't fit the clock you are projected into. Rocketed into in the space of a day. It makes you feel bad.

It disturbs your physical balance. It certainly does odd things to your thinking.

Memory is one of the first to go. Adding up a restaurant check can be a major problem. Your home telephone number may go out of mind beyond recapture.

Man is plagued by memory's tricks. Not long ago, a young man telephoned a Florida newspaper. He was in desperate need.

He had forgotten what church he was to be married in. At that ever-loving moment, if he could find it.

He had the ring. The bride was waiting. He could not remember at which church.

The paper looked up the wedding announcement. Gave him name of church and directions. And, we imagine they are living happily ever after.

(A close call. A bride should paste name of church in her intended's hat.)

Not only memory. Fate often does us in. Between typewriter ribbon and the final printing there is little chance for the agonizing reappraisal.

Praise a restaurant, on the day of printing the customers have been felled by last night's turkey a la king.

Speak well of a noble citizen. The day it appears, the front page carries the news that he has absconded with the charity funds.

READING MACHINES OBSOLETE

One of the major problems to be faced by the teacher of speed reading, when the method is machine oriented, is that most students lose the acquired skill shortly after leaving the course. The machine provides a pacer for the student, forcing him to move faster, but when the machine is no longer available, the student tends to revert to his previous reading patterns. The Wood Method teaches the student to use his hand as a pacer, guiding his eyes rapidly down the page, and as his pacer is always with him, he can retain and improve upon, his acquired skill.

EVELYN WOOD

Accelerated Prep School Tests Institute's Course

NOTE: In March this year, the St. Johns Country Day School in Orange Park, Florida, arranged with the Reading Dynamics Institute in Jacksonville for special Reading Dynamics group instruction on campus.

(St. Johns ratio of National Merit Scholarship finalists to total number of seniors is at least 15 times as favorable as nationally. Graduates have been elected to numerous honor societies, among them Phi Beta Kappa, Woodrow Wilson Scholarship, Fulbright Scholarships, etc.)

Mrs. Dorothea B. Heinrich, faculty member in charge of the experimental project, wrote the following remarks to the Director of the Jacksonville Reading Dynamics Institute:

"Members of the faculty of St. Johns Country Day School read in TIME that Evelyn Wood had developed a method of teaching people to read at thousands of words per minute. They felt that it would be worthwhile to investigate its value for our school.

"Visits to the Reading Dynamics Institute in Atlanta and an article in THE READING TEACHER confirmed our belief that the ability to read dynamically might bring to readers what jet engines brought to aircraft travel. But there were skeptics around who warned us that, 'this feat was physically impossible,' 'the whole idea was a commercial gimmick' and 'it was not real reading, just skimming.' I was selected by the faculty to be our test case.

"It was not easy, and I worked faithfully on the assigned homework drills. But what a thrill it was when I first realized that the whole page of print was clear and the thoughts had penetrated my mind, without being conscious of words, while moving along at a rate of 1,800 to 2,000 words per minute. I wish everyone who has a love for books could share this experience.

"Reading dynamically forces the reader to make fuller use of his mind. It is not for a lazy person. The speed with which he reads demands better concentration, there is not time for extraneous thoughts to stray into the mind, and consequently comprehension is better. Our mind, when forced, will put ideas together in logical order. This is what Reading Dynamics trains us to do.

"Reactions from our first class at St. Johns prove that all our expectations have come true. Students read at five to eight times their entrance speed with significantly improved comprehension."

6,000 WORDS PER MINUTE . . . PERFECT COMPREHENSION

College Professor Sparks New Ideas

The professor flipped through the term paper, all 80 pages of it, once . . . and marked the paper as he went without missing a misplaced comma. His speed? 6,000 words per minute with perfect understanding. The term paper was Evelyn Wood's. It was that event that sparked the idea for what eventually became Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics.

Being a school teacher working on her Masters degree, Mrs. Wood was naturally intrigued with such reading skill. She started looking for other fast readers, to see if there was some basis of comparison, some "trick" or method that made them the great readers they were.

Teacher Wood found 50 other such prodigies including a housewife and a shepherd. And all the rapid readers did have common characteristics: they read whole paragraphs at a time, rather than word by word, and they remembered everything they read.

Mrs. Wood began to teach herself these principles and thus developed a system for teaching others. It took another 12 years before she had her system developed, tested and proved. She worked with students at Jordan High School, Jordan, Utah, where she was an English teacher for nine years. Then she taught her new reading system to students at the University of Utah for another three years.

And always, Mrs. Wood's students learned to read between three and ten times faster . . . and they improved their comprehension of what they read at the same time.

Mrs. Wood took her system to the University of Delaware where additional studies were conducted before she brought it to the public in 1959. In September of that year, she opened the first Reading Dynamics Institute in Washington, D.C. Today there are over 60 institutes across the country with more than 300,000 graduates.

Reading with your brain is the secret to reading 3 to 10 times faster.

Your brain is capable of absorbing and comprehending written material at a fantastic rate of speed . . . a thousand, two thousand, even beyond 10 thousand words a minute. The fact that the average person is able to feed in information at only 250 to 350 words per minute is one of the greatest wastes in human history.

But it's not your fault. You were taught to read word by word—probably aloud in front of a class. You were taught to sound the words, you were taught to "sub-vocalize," to read with your "ears" instead of your brain.

And in so doing, you tied a gigantic anchor to your reading speed . . . to your intellectual growth . . . your ability to learn . . . and your ability to enjoy.

To those people who care to loosen the anchor rope . . . to those people who care to grow, Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics offers a dramatic opportunity.

Reading Dynamics teaches you to read with your brain. It teaches you to disregard words as words and just let the story roll into your mind. You get the total impact, whether it's the sports page, the Bible, or an office memo.

A word of caution. Reading Dynamics is not a course for lazy people. It offers no "magic" formulas. It teaches a sound and proven educational principle that is absolutely guaranteed to yield results when the student applies his natural abilities. Results from over 300,000 graduates indicate that the average student can expect to increase his reading efficiency (speed and comprehension) 4.7 times.

- You'll see a documented film with Washington Congressmen who have taken the course.
- You'll learn complete details about the seven week course.
- You'll learn how Reading Dynamics might help you.
- You'll be served free coffee.
- You'll be given the opportunity to ask questions.
- You'll spend 60 minutes of your time.

Party Is 'Welcome Home' Celebration

It really was a celebration at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Pfeiff. It was a welcome home party for Lt. Lawrence (Biff) Pfeiff who has just returned from a year's tour of duty in Vietnam. Mrs. 'Biff', by the way, joined her husband's parents as a hostess for the party to which numerous friends of the family were invited.

We suspect that Lt. Pfeiff hoped that the photographer would take his picture and be on his way since, after Vietnam, the food on the buffet table looked exceedingly tempting.

Mr. and Mrs. Pfeiff feel that they are particularly fortunate because their two sons, Capt. William Pfeiff and Lt. Pfeiff both saw duty in Vietnam, and both returned safely. Capt. Pfeiff came back to the States last July and now is stationed at Ft. Lee, Va.

At the close of his leave Lt. Pfeiff will go to Ft. Riley, Kan., and will be released from the service next February. A graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Engineering, Lt. Pfeiff has a position waiting for him with Proctor and Gamble in Kansas City.

Lincolnshire Estates Wedgewood Manor Skyline Terrace Trendwood

Another dawn — and from the dark complexion of the skies this morning, dawns are coming earlier and earlier. So if you're still a bit drowsy at this moment, sit back, relax and find out what's happening in the suburban treas.

In Lincolnshire Estates, Halloween will be the happening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Sawin on Saturday afternoon. The festivities will be presided over by Dr. and Mrs. Sawin's daughter, Kristin, who will be hostess to schoolmates and friends at a party.

Costumes, apple-bobbing and old-fashioned Halloween games are planned for the young lady's 16 feminine guests and brother, Paul, who is three-years-old and doesn't mind one bit that it's an all-girls affair.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Strasheim, the weekend brought Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eicher of Denver, Colo. Mrs. Eicher (the former Jerrie Langelett) and Mrs. Strasheim, who were roommates during their University of Nebraska days, made a reunion of the weekend, and with their husbands attended the NU-Colorado football game.

Weekend guests in Wedgewood Manor included Mr. and Mrs. Joel Borking of Milwaukee, Wis., who were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Owen E. Beach. The foursome managed to combine business with pleasure, attending the General Tobacco and Candy Co., Centennial show which was held at Pershing Auditorium on Sunday afternoon. But earlier in the day Mr. and Mrs. Beach entertained at a Sunday brunch in honor of an aunt, Mrs. Sharlene DeBoerd, who is visiting in Lincoln this week at the home of Mrs. Beach's mother, Mrs. Glen Baldwin.

Miss Jackie Harrington was a very surprised 12-year-old when three Belmont classmates threw an unexpected birthday party for her on Saturday. The mischievous hostesses were Miss Sharon Fricke, Miss Paula Gates and Miss Donna Harrington, Jackie's cousin. The afternoon festivities were held at the home of Miss Gates' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Gates.

Next Saturday the Belmont Community Center will be raising funds at a rummage sale sponsored by the Lions Club. Proceeds from the sale, which will be held from 10 o'clock until 6 o'clock in the center's gym, will go to the Belmont Library building program.

It was an outdoor holiday for Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smetter when the twosome took off for western Nebraska and deer-hunting during the weekend. On the trip they were overnight guests in Bridgeport.

Included among the football entertainers in Skyline Terrace on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wise who were host and hostess at an after-the-game party.

Abby: home--or institution for child

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Be fair, and give the other side of the question of whether to institutionalize a Mongoloid child. There are so many who say, "All the retarded child needs is to be kept at home, and assured that he is loved."

But Abby, have you ever seen a mentally deficient child who has grown to adulthood? A 30-year-old man who still makes baby noises, but must be shaved, bathed, and taken to the bathroom? He is not very "lovable." Oh, his mother "loves" him all right, but her heart aches and twists as friends try to conceal their embarrassment. And the terrible shadow of,

"What will happen to him when I am gone," looms ahead and grows darker with the years.

Not all mentally deficient children are so seriously retarded that they would be better off in an institution, but once it becomes established that he must be cared for as a baby all his life, the sooner he is placed in a reputable institution, the better.

When our doctor suggested that I place my child in an institution, I cried, "I CANNOT put my child in an institution! What will she think?"

The doctor replied, "She wouldn't care. She wouldn't know the difference."

And it's true. She has been there for 19 years. She is safe and happy there. I let her go when she was young enough to adjust. I love her, as I love my other children. And I have no regrets.

BEEN THERE

DEAR ABBY: I was quite interested in your article a while back where the widow complained that she has lost out several times to divorcees, and asked you why.

As you know, the longer a woman is a widow, the greater was her husband, and it often gets to the point that he was the most magnificent human being who ever lived.

The following story may illustrate the point:

"The greatest man who ever lived was Huggins. Broad-minded, tolerant, generous, temperate, patient, brilliant, yet he died with all his good qualities unsuspected."

"Well, how did you manage to find out so much about him?"

"I married his widow."

Sincerely yours,

Art Tour For Musicians Guest

Accompanying their versatile visitor on a tour of the University of Nebraska campus, Thursday, were collegiate members of Mu Phi Epsilon professional music fraternity for women who were hostesses last weekend to their province governor, Miss Helen Manley of Minneapolis. A "must" on the tour was the Sheldon Art Gallery as Miss Manley not only is a musician — a vocalist — but a co-owner of a Minneapolis art gallery as well as a full-time career woman associated with an electronics firm.

Friday morning, the visitor was the guest of honor at a coffee given by Mu Phi Epsilon Alumnae at the home of Mrs. Louis Trzcinski. A program was presented by Mrs. Richard Duxbury, who sang excerpts from the opera, "Baby Doe", in which she starred recently with the Omaha Symphony. She was accompanied by Mrs. John Zei.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West

5 ♠	Pass	Pass	Double

Opening lead — three of hearts.

Here is an interesting hand played by Bela Kassay, one of the leaders of the Hungarian revolt in 1956 who has since then made his mark as a bridge player in New York, where he now leads a more peaceful existence.

Kassay got to fire diamonds doubled and West led a heart. Spurning the finesse, which was likely to lose on the bidding, Kassay went up with the ace, cashed the A-K of clubs on which he discarded a heart, ruffed a club, ruffed a spade, and ruffed the fourth round of clubs, establishing the seven as a trick.

Kassay then ruffed another spade in dummy and led the seven of clubs. East, who had discarded a spade on the previous round of clubs, discarded another spade, since he could not on either occasion afford to ruff with the ace of trumps.

Kassay discarded the ten of hearts on the good club as West ruffed low, but the contract was now unbeatable. He ruffed the heart return and led a trump, and when the A-K fell together Kassay easily made the rest.

A well-known book which discussed this hand stated that East could have defeated the contract by discarding a low heart on the fourth round of clubs, and the king of hearts on the fifth round of clubs. The theory was that West would ruff low and return a heart, permitting East to ruff with the ace, after which West would score the setting trick with the king of trumps.

The suggested line of defense is certainly imaginative, but, unfortunately, it is at the same time ineffective. If East discards the king of hearts, South simply ruffs the seven of clubs with the nine of trumps and the defense collapses.

Youthful Beauty

From the early twenties, bedtime massage with a vitalizing night cream is ideal for softening traces of surface skin dryness and tiny lines. Apply Olay vitalizing night cream to cheeks, forehead, and throat and coax it into the skin with light, upward moulting strokes, then remove with a tissue. Such care will encourage complexion loveliness.

'Dear John' Is Major Problem

... FOR CHAPLAINS

Da Nang, South Vietnam (UPI) — The young American Marine waits quietly while the names of his buddies are shouted out at mail call. Once again, no letters for him.

He has been married for five months, the first of which he has spent in Vietnam. He has not received a letter from his wife for more than a month.

Then one day his name is called out and he gets a letter in the handwriting of the girl he has married. It hits him like a kick in the teeth.

Someone Else
"I realize now that we didn't know each other long enough before we got married," the letter says. "I see now that I'm really not in love with you. I've found someone else."

These are the words of a typical "Dear John" letter. Lt. Clyde Kimble, 34 of Lafayette, La., a Southern Baptist minister and the Navy chaplain of the 1st Medical Battalion of Marines at Da Nang, says the "Dear John" letter to husbands is the "major problem" facing chaplains in Vietnam.

Kimble said the majority of such cases involves young men who had married girls younger than themselves.

Short Time
"Many times she's only

16 or 17 years old," Kimble said. "He's 18, 19 or under 20. They've only been married a short while before he comes to Vietnam."

The girl, Kimble continued, is back in the states, sometimes with his parents or her parents, or perhaps in an apartment by herself. Often she's in a place where she doesn't know anyone.

She gets lonely—and that's where the trouble starts, according to the chaplain.

In Love

"Another man comes into the picture from somewhere," he said. "She starts seeing him and the first thing you know she's got the idea that she's in love with him."

"She will stop writing to her husband for a while, maybe a month or so. Then the 'Dear John' letter will come."

"For the fighting man in Vietnam, such a letter is a tremendous blow, emotionally and psychologically," Kimble said. Many times it gets on his mind so that he can not do his work.

Handicap

"It really puts a handicap on him when he's over here trying to do a job, especially if he's out in the field on patrol at a time when he needs to be extremely cautious and alert."

"When he's got these problems on his mind, when he's thinking of these things, of course he places himself and his buddies in jeopardy."

Kimble suspects that many cases of "Dear John" husbands never reach the desk of the chaplain.

Maybe More

"Maybe even more than those who come to the chaplain keep the problems to themselves," he said.

Besides advising the husbands involved, there are several things a chaplain can do, according to Kimble.

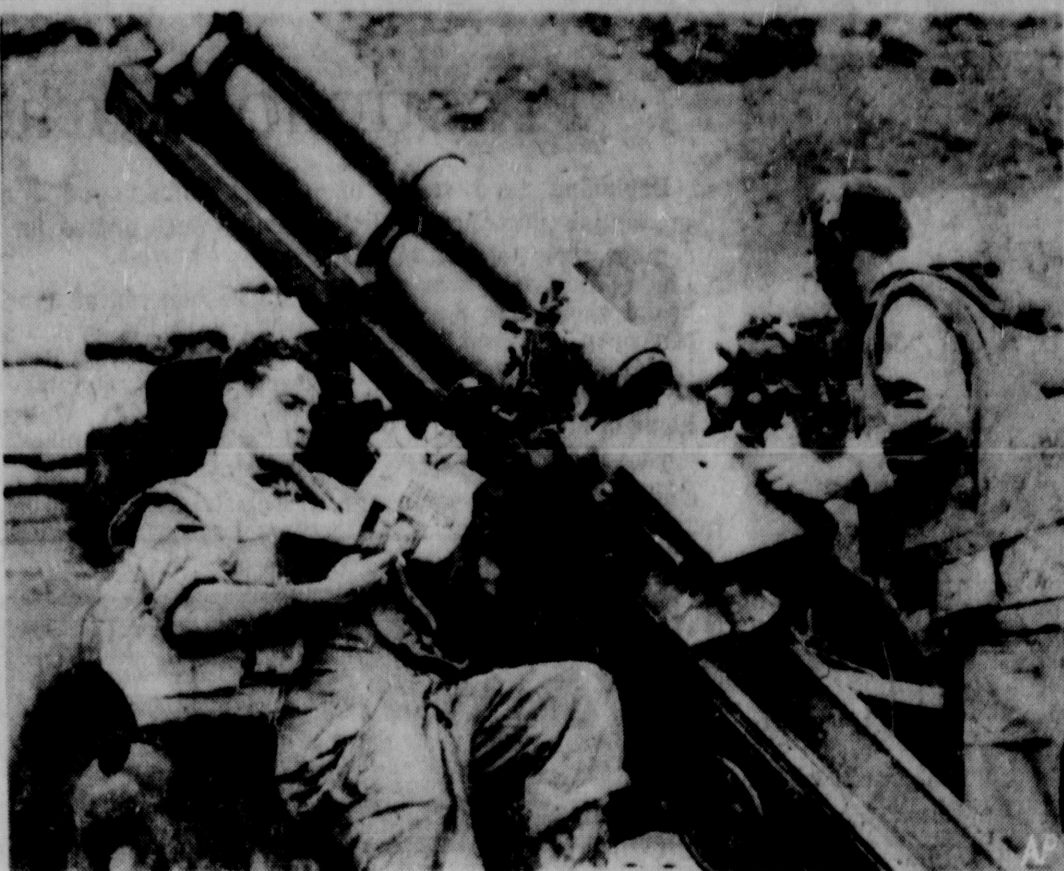

"The man always feels that if he could talk to his wife it would straighten things out some, and so I try to make arrangements for him to reach her by telephone from Vietnam back to the states," he said.

Arrange Leave

In other cases, the chaplain can help arrange for the Marine to get emergency leave, especially if there are children at home.

Kimble, who has spent nearly a year in Vietnam, sums up the situation this way:

"In our counseling over here the 'Dear John' letter is a major problem that we deal with."

CATCHING UP . . . U.S. Marine rests on artillery piece at Con Thien, as he catches up on the disputes back home over war.

GI In Vietnam Says None There Against War, Protestors Minority

Washington (AP) — A soldier who said he spoke for a group of fighting men in Vietnam has told Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in effect: GIs over there favor "fighting for the freedom of these people" and believe stateside antiwar protestors do not speak for Americans youth.

Rusk was so pleased with the letter that he gave a copy to President Johnson. The enlisted man wrote that he was chosen by companions in his combat unit as Da Nang to voice the views of the group.

The letter, written well before this weekend's demonstration at the Pentagon, was mentioned last week in a background session for young corporation executives. The State Department made the letter public Sunday at a newsman's request but identities of the writer and his unit were withheld.

'Cause Controversy'

The serviceman told Rusk that antiwar actions of U.S. students and news accounts of them "caused great controversy over here and therefore we are writing you this letter."

"As you well know most of the GIs over here, of which there numbers over 400,000, are between the ages of 18 and 25," the serviceman wrote, saying he is in that age bracket.

"These people are Democrats and Republicans, liberals, and conservatives of all types of families," he said.

None Say Leave

"Yet I've never talked to a single GI over here and I probably never will, who says 'get out of Vietnam.'"

"We are fighting for the freedom of these people, as we once fought for our own. Of these thousands of young Americans over here we all take pride in fighting for the principles that made our country the greatest on earth."

"When our grandchildren read about Vietnam in history lessons we will be proud to tell them that we were part of that lesson. We will take our place in history with the Americans who fought for freedom in the Revolutionary War, both World Wars, and in Korea."

Minority Protesters

The GI said "there are thousands more in the states who share our feelings" and that only a minority of young Americans "sit in college classrooms, major in political science, and see fit to protest that which our government does."

In a brief reply, Rusk wrote his serviceman correspondent that he "drew much inspiration" from the GIs' views on the Vietnam issues which "represent patriotism at its best."

"I was so impressed by your letter that I have sent a copy of it to the President," Rusk said.

Che Said 'Symbol'

Algiers (AP) — In a message of sympathy to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro on the slaying of guerrilla leader Ernesto Che Guevara in Bolivia, Algeria's President Houari Boumedienne said: "Guevara's sacrifice will remain a symbol for all of those devoting themselves to the sacred cause of freedom and human dignity."

Pollution Said Threatening Sex Powers

Maplewood, N.J. (UPI) — An allergy expert says air pollution poses a threat to human sex life.

Allergist Dr. Frank Rosen said California tests show animals exposed to auto fumes have diminishing sex powers. "As far as I know," he said, "research has not been carried over to human beings — but the possibility of the adverse effect is certainly there."

Rosen, long a critic of public apathy on air pollution dangers, said linking sex and smog "might open some eyes."

Estimate Lower

The Hague (AP) — Official Dutch statisticians have made a downward revision in the expected rate of population increase. In 1965 they figured the Dutch would increase from the present 12.5 million to 19.5 to 21 million by the year 2000. Now they say the 21st century will dawn on only 18 million Dutch. Their reason: A declining fertility rate.

Majority For Right To Strike Private Industry, Poll Says

By LOUIS HARRIS

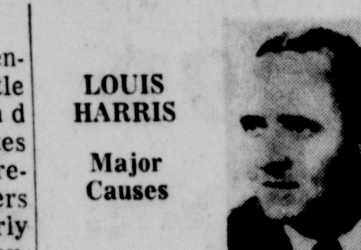

The American people endorse labor's right to settle private industry, but stand firmly opposed to strikes among school teachers, firemen, policemen and workers in defense industries. Nearly two-thirds of the public expresses the feeling that strikes have been on the rise lately as compared with a year or two ago.

Two major causes are identified by the public for the recent strikes in the auto industry and by teachers in Detroit and New York: (1) the continuing pinch of the cost of living and (2) the attitude of union leaders in encouraging strikes.

These causes are rated as more important sources of labor-management strife than spontaneous militancy among union members, lack of understanding of labor's problems by employers or the belief that union members only win substantial gains when they strike.

The largest body of public opinion takes neither the union nor the management side. Among the four in 10 who take sides, there is an even division between those backing unions and those backing management.

Significantly, in this current upsurge of labor unrest, there is no marked antinuclear sentiment in the country. The main reason seems to be that most Americans share with union members the worry of how to make ends meet in a period when living costs are spiraling upward.

LOUIS HARRIS Major Causes

leadership. When a cross section of union members was asked for reasons behind this trend, the major sentiments expressed were: "members are not getting their demands satisfied"; "leadership will sell out the members"; "disagree with leaders' decisions at bargaining table," and "some radicals mess up settlements."

By and large, this response is indicative of a new militancy which is by no means confined to workers in traditional blue-collar industries. A carefully drawn national cross section of the public was asked:

"Do you favor or oppose the right of (auto industry workers and so on) to strike?"

RIGHT TO STRIKE		Total	Nation	Union
Auto workers	64%	71%	61%
Favor	26%	16%	30%

segment of the public is comparable with that of the non-union majority. Basically, the American people want collective bargaining for government employees to contain machinery which avoids the ultimate use of the strike weapon. Undoubtedly, in the case of firemen, police and defense workers, people feel that local and national security can be jeopardized by strikes.

Here is the pattern on public opinion regarding the major causes behind strikes these days:

MAJOR CAUSES OF STRIKES		Total	Nation	Union
Cost of living keeps going up	67%	72%	63%
Union leaders encourage strikes	62%	51%	66%
Management refuses to understand labor's problems	37%	52%	31%
Rank-and-file more militant than leaders	26%	26%	26%
Workers don't do better unless they strike	24%	31%	21%

As might be expected, the general nonunion public is much more apt to blame strike action on union leaders, while union members tend to pin the onus on management unwillingness to understand their needs and demands. Reinforcing the non-union position is a widespread conviction among people inside and outside organized labor that bargaining demands often represent the wishes of a few leaders rather than the rank-and-file.

However, buttressing the union-member view is widespread belief that industry has done little to curb rising inflation. And that is one reason why the public now favors both price and wage controls, as reported last week by the Harris Survey, as a central means of stemming the surging cost of living.

GOPs: Dodge Draft With Pay Hike

Washington (UPI) — Nineteen GOP congressmen Sunday announced publication of a book entitled "How To End The Draft." Their principal suggestion: raise service pay.

"As long as beginning servicemen get paid less than the minimum wage required by law there is no hope of ever getting rid of the draft," the GOP lawmakers said in a statement describing the book.

The federal minimum wage is currently $1.40 an hour. Recruits in all the services now receive base pay of $90.60 a month. In addition they are fed, housed and provided with medical care and if married given a family allotment.

The Republicans said it was "outrageous" to compel men to give up two years of their life and then force them to undergo a considerable financial sacrifice while serving their country.

They called the loss of income an "implicit tax" on the draftee and said it was a tax that should be shared by all society, through a boost in service salaries.

Pay should not be boosted to the point where money alone is the major inducement to voluntary enlistments, they said. But they maintained that wage reform, starting with an immediate hike to the minimum wage level for recruits, would "help reduce draft calls right down to zero."

No. 2 Didn't Try Harder, But No. 1 Had O.J. Simpson

By Associated Press

No. 2 won't be replacing No. 1 this week, not in college football anyway.

Purdue started Saturday's football crush right behind top-ranked Southern California in The Associated Press' poll and will probably find itself in the bottom half of the Top Ten after Oregon State's eager Beavers defeated the Boilermakers, 22-14, in Lafayette, Ind.

Southern Cal had its problems, too, until the Trojans turned loose O. J. Simpson and raced away with a 23-6 victory over Washington in a Pacific-8 game.

Either UCLA or Colorado, Nos. 3 and 4 respectively, will probably move into Purdue's runner-up spot after the Bruins came from behind to nudge Stanford and the Buffaloes did the same to beat Nebraska, both by 21-16 scores.

The only other ranked team to get beat was Alabama, No. 6, losing to seventh-ranked Tennessee 24-13, its first defeat in 26 games.

Georgia, No. 8, trounced Virginia Military, 56-6; Houston, No. 9, smashed Mississippi State, 43-6, and Wyoming, No. 10, belted Wichita State, 30-7.

Fifth-ranked North Carolina State tumbled Wake Forest, 24-7, in a night game.

Purdue was aiming for its 10th straight victory, four of them this year, and held a 14-10 lead in the third quarter before the twice-beaten Beavers scored the last 12 points. Bill Enyard plunged four yards for the touchdown and Mike Haggard kicked his third field goal.

But the Oregon State defense made the biggest impression, intercepting three passes, including one in the last minute, and recovering three fumbles.

Southern Cal, 6-0, managed to overcome four fumbles and an interception on a rain-soaked field in Seattle, scoring 16 points in the final quarter.

Simpson, who ran for 242 yards, led the way, scampering 86 yards for a first period score and 10 yards for a TD in the fourth quarter before throwing 17 yards for the final touchdown.

UCLA, 6-0, marched 78 yards with the opening kickoff, but fell behind 10-7 before Gary Beban rallied the Bruins with scoring runs of 11 and four yards in the second and third periods.

Colorado needed a pair of long interception returns to pick up its fifth victory without a loss and all but ended Nebraska's hopes for a fifth straight Big Eight title.

Safety Dick Anderson grabbed the first and ran 17 yards before lateralling to Mike Veeder, who covered the last 45 yards for a score, breaking a 7-7 tie. The Buffaloes had trailed 7-0 earlier.

With the score 14-13 Colorado, Jeff Raymond ran back another Frank Patrick pass 76 yards for a 21-13 lead.

The Cornhuskers heavily outgained Colorado, but four interceptions and four fumbles ruined their chances.

Tennessee's pass defense also made the difference against Alabama as the Vols picked off five of Ken Stabler's tosses, including three by Al Dorsey. Dorsey raced 31 yards for a touchdown with his last theft late in the final quarter, ending the Tide's last threat.

Georgia took out its upset loss last week on over-matched VMI as Ronnie Jenkins and Brad Johnson each scored twice and the brawny Bulldogs held the Keydets to minus 49 yards rushing.

Houston's Don Bean scored twice, on a 65-yard punt return and a nine-yard run, to make the Cougars' job easy. A 55-yard pass on the first play of the game put Wyoming behind, but quarterback Paul Toscano ran for one score and passed for another to revive the Cowboys.

Gerald Warren kicked three field goals and Fred Combs returned a punt 71 yards for a touchdown as North Carolina State rolled over Wake Forest.

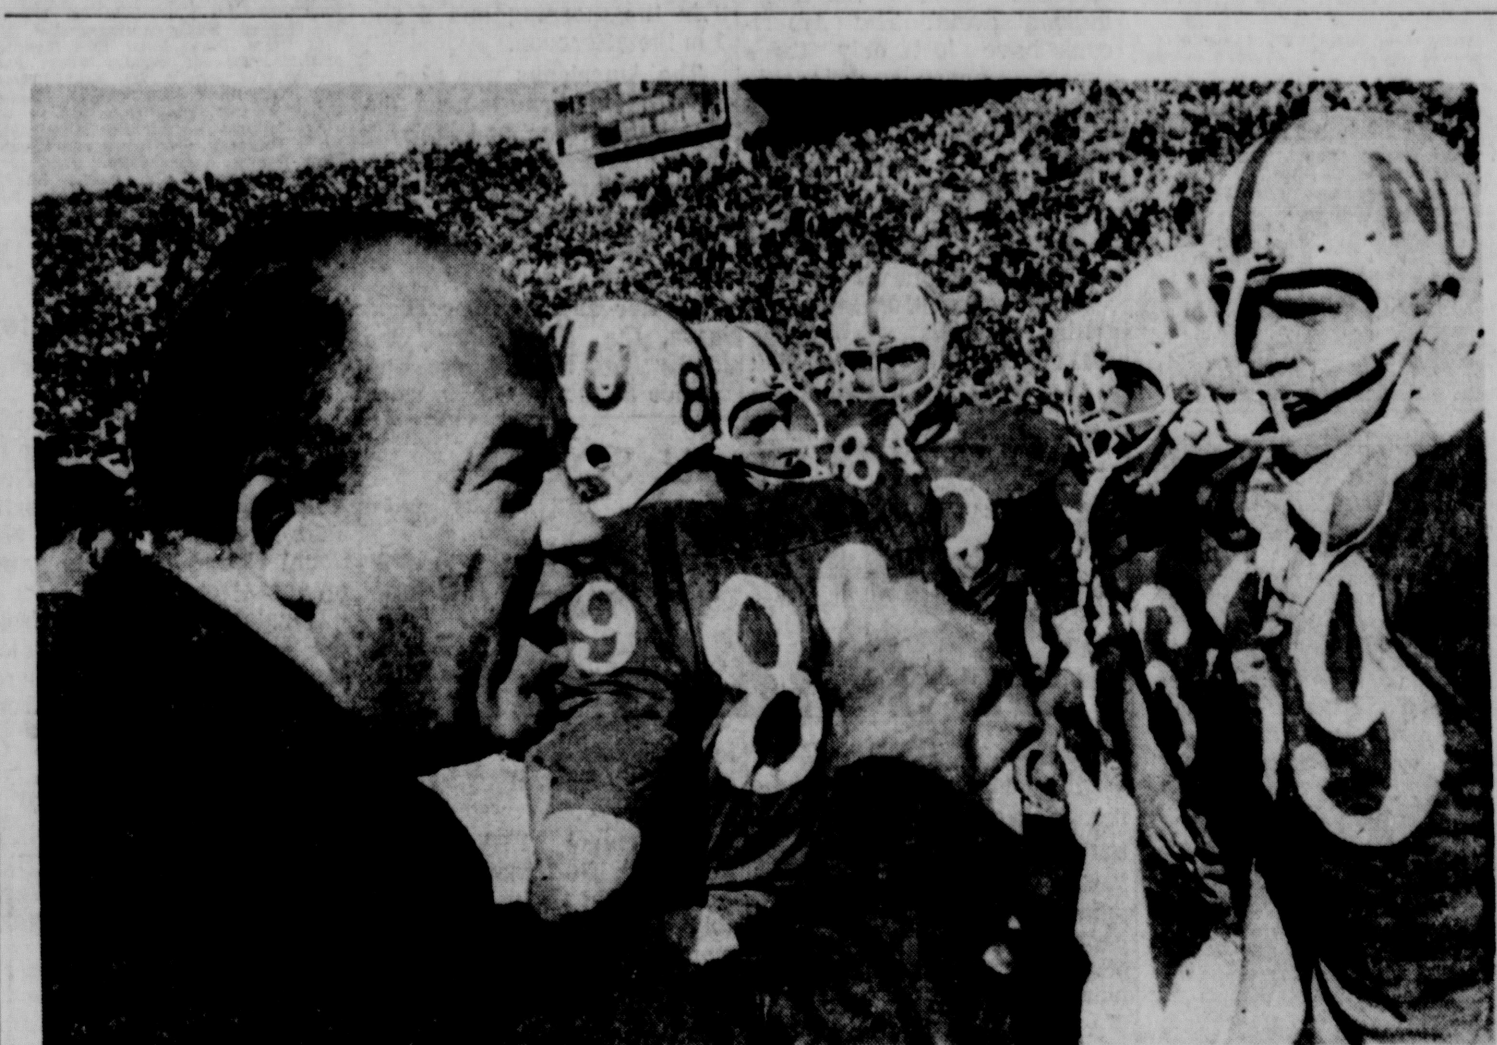

Twice-beaten Notre Dame, seeking a return to the Top Ten, rode Terry Hanratty's erratic passing to a 47-7 rout over Illinois, but another pre-season favorite, Michigan State, lost for the third time, 21-0 to Minnesota.

Indiana continued to show surprising strength by tripping Michigan 27-20 for its fifth victory without a defeat.

Auburn, which has lost only to Tennessee in five games, made its bid for ranking by whipping Georgia Tech, 28-10, behind quarterback Loran Carter.

Chris Gilbert covered 164 yards in 38 carries and scored three touchdowns, boosting Texas to a 21-12 victory over Arkansas in a nationally-televized game.

Packers Rally, 48-21, For Win Over Giants

. . . HOUSTON UPSETS KC

By Associated Press

Jim Hart passed for four touchdowns and a tenacious defense led the St. Louis Cardinals to a crushing 48-14 victory over Philadelphia in the National Football League Sunday.

In other NFL games, Detroit walloped Atlanta, 24-3; Baltimore battled to a 20-20 tie with the Minnesota Vikings; Green Bay roared from behind for a 48-21 win over the New York Giants; San Francisco dropped New Orleans, 27-13; Washington and the Los Angeles Rams battled to a 28-28 tie, and Dallas nipped Pittsburgh, 24-21.

In the American League, Houston upset Kansas City, 24-19; New York ripped Miami, 33-14; San Diego rocked Denver, 38-21; and Oakland blasted Boston, 48-13.

The Cardinals, after spotting Philadelphia an 11-point lead in the first period, took the lead for good with 15 seconds to play in the first half when Hart hit rookie Dave Williams on a 14-yard scoring pass.

The victory raised the Cardinals' record in the Eastern Conference's Century Division to 4-2. Philadelphia dropped to 3-3 in the Eastern's Capitol Division.

Hart hit 16 of 29 passes for 267 yards. Charlie Johnson, ticketed to be St. Louis' No. 1 quarterback until he was drafted into the Army August, played the final three minutes. Johnson had a week-end pass.

Hart also hit Jackie Smith for touchdowns of 74 and eight yards and found Bobby Joe Conrad for a 31-yard scoring pass.

Elijah Pitts scored three touchdowns and set up a fourth with an option pass as the aroused Green Bay Packers rallied in the second half for their victory over the New York Giants.

Craig Morton's third touchdown pass of the game with 24 seconds to play gave the Dallas Cowboys a 24-21 victory over Pittsburgh after the Steelers had gone ahead for the first time only 48 seconds earlier.

Frank Ryan trotted out of the locker room in the third quarter and threw a nine-yard touchdown pass to Gary Collins that started the Cleveland Browns to a 24-0 victory over the Chicago Bears, who played without Gale Sayers.

Ryan left the game with 7½ minutes left in the third quarter after he was hit while passing. The Brown's quarterback was given medical treatment for a bruise on his chest while Dick Shiner took over.

Karl Sweetan, starting his first game of the season, broke open a tight defensive battle with two fourth quarter scoring strikes, carrying the Detroit Lions to a 24-3 victory over the Atlanta Falcons.

Johnny Unitas' brilliant passing rallied Baltimore from behind twice in the fourth quarter and brought the unbeaten Colts a 20-20 tie with Minnesota.

In AFL action, the Oakland Raiders parlayed the passing magic of Daryle Lamonia and a mighty defense in crushing the Boston Patriots 48-14 Sunday for their fifth victory in six American Football League games.

Houston, led by veteran safety Jim Norton, jumped to a 24-3 lead in the first 24 minutes and held on for a stunning 24-19 upset over Kansas City's struggling American Football League champions Sunday.

Sooners Now Loom As True Contender

. . . IN BIG 8 SCRAMBLE

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

When Colorado got by Nebraska, that was supposed to be their biggest stumbling block to winning the Big Eight football title, but now a new threat appears to the Buffs.

Oklahoma, the last team other than Nebraska to win a Big Eight championship, has allowed only two touchdowns in four games while piling up 109 points of its own and the question now might be who is the stumbling block and who is in control between the Sooners and Buffs.

That question likely will be answered in two weeks when the two teams clash at Norman, but first each must get by teams that figured to be contenders in pre-season reckoning.

Oklahoma State, which has shown little offense in winning once, losing twice and tying once, is at Colorado Saturday and Oklahoma goes to Missouri, a team hurt by weaknesses at offensive halfback and no passing attack.

But the Tigers did bounce back for a 23-7 win over Iowa State after being stopped by Colorado, 23-9, a week ago and Missouri has always been tough against the Sooners.

Kansas State coach Vince Gibson, whose Wildcats suffered a 46-7 beating from Oklahoma, called the Sooners, "the best football team I've seen in a long time."

"That's the most points I've ever had scored against me. Their offense was simply awesome. We did everything we could possibly do, but they were so much quicker."

Nebraska, which could have started on its way to a fifth straight Big Eight championship Saturday without getting any help from others along the way now must get some help to keep their fleeting hopes alive.

The 21-16 setback by Colorado put the Huskers in a deep hole from which to dig out toward another championship, or probably at best a share of the title.

But there is still a chance since Colorado, with a 3-0 mark, must get by Oklahoma State, Oklahoma, a surprising Kansas team that is 2-0 in league play and Kansas State outfit that can cause trouble.

Kansas, which could get its third conference win this week, hosting Iowa State at Lawrence, then must face Kansas State, Colorado, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Oklahoma still has all the contenders to face and Missouri has met only Colorado, and lost, among the expected contenders.

The Big Eight scramble may have just begun.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Sense of Proportion Urged In Credit Sales Business

By Merryll S. Rukeyser
Voluntary business is man's best hope for conquering or reducing poverty.

Because of this, instead of exploiting suckers, industry should responsibly concentrate on providing customers with what they want and need.

The flourishing of a free society depends on the capacity of businessmen to engage in self criticism and self policing.

A good rule of thumb is the ancient Greek striving for a sense of proportion — nothing too much.

In America, one of the best social tools for achieving better living has been installment sales financing, but too many families suffer from over-doses of credit. And businessmen, in the competition for volume, have not been without sin in promoting consumer recklessness.

Hot Water
The over-extension of credit commitments has been putting an increasing ratio of families into hot water. Between 1960 and the end of 1965, there was a two thirds increase in the number of non-business bankruptcy petitions, which rose from 97,750 to 163,413. Not only is the rate of consumer bankruptcies continuing to grow rapidly but for each person taking the bankruptcy route it is estimated that more than 20 are squeezed by overdoses of credit.

The remedy does not lie in passing a law against buying on time. A more constructive approach is to inculcate a sense of responsibility and self discipline in the consumer. Consumer credit totals $95 billion, with all but $15 billion of this evidenced by installment contracts.

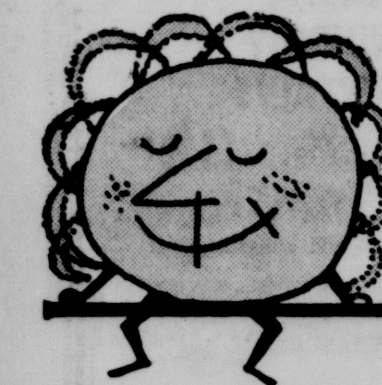

No one doubts the conclusion of one contemporary study that consumer credit is "a major factor in the American economy and family life."

The great need is for the individual and the family to budget their credit as well as their cash. Twenty business organizations, profiting from installment sales financing, have banded together with the AFL-CIO to develop as a voluntary community service family credit counseling agencies in accord with the American tradition of self help and self control.

Sound Procedure
A counterpart to the movement should be the setting up by business of voluntary criteria for sound use of credit.

Through the years, this column has proposed guidelines:

1. Installment selling should be restricted to durable physical objects, which can be repossessed by the seller in case the buyer defaults. (This would exclude vacations and transportation.)

2. The useful life of the product should last at least as long as the schedule of installment payments, so that the customer is not paying for "dead horses."

3. Where feasible, the article purchased on time should be a tool item which will help the buy develop income to meet payments. Carpenters' tools, farm implements and salesmen's automobiles are examples.

The Family Service Association of America, 44 East 23rd Street, New York City, supported by the 20 business firms and the AFL-CIO, has family credit counseling services in 50 communities in the United States and Canada, and more are planned. Where families are in trouble from overuse of credit, the payment plan is revised by arranging a smaller monthly payment for a longer period of time. The debtor is asked to bring the agreed-upon amount to the credit counseling office each pay day or each month, and then the staff forwards the adjusted payments to the creditors.

The difficulty in working out financial reorganizations lies in retaining enough free income to meet basic living expenses in addition to installment obligations.

The counseling agency reported that the average person coming for aid owed about three fourths of a year's total earnings.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, in the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Stops Tormenting Rectal Itch

Exclusive Formula Promptly Stops Itching, and Relieves Pain of Piles in Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): One of the most tormenting afflictions is the burning itch caused by piles. It's most embarrassing during the day and especially aggravating at night. "Scratching" only makes the condition worse. No matter what you've tried without results—here's good news.

A scientific research institute discovered a special medication which has the ability, in most cases—to promptly stop the burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids. Tests conducted on hundreds of patients by leading doctors in New York City, in Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so. And it was accomplished without narcotics or stinging astringents of any kind. The secret is Preparation H®—an exclusive formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids. There is no other formula like it! In case after case, Preparation H promptly stops the burning itch, relieves pain—as it gently reduces the swelling. Preparation H also lubricates and soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form. No prescription is needed.

Lincoln Man, 20, Is Bitten By Dog

A 20-year-old Lincoln man was treated for a dog bite early Sunday evening after being bitten by a chained dog when he stopped to pet the animal, police said.

Harry V. Peterson of 6521 Summer told police that he was bitten by a dog chained in the back yard of the home of a friend at 3531 Q after he had reached down to pat the dog, police reported. Police said that animal was taken to an animal hospital where it would be held under observation for 10 days, police said.

REPORT OF CONDITION OF THE HAVELOCK NATIONAL BANK OF LINCOLN

Strokes More Common In Southeast

San Francisco (UPI) — Men in the Southeastern states are more likely to die of strokes than residents of the rest of the nation, a team of physicians told the American Heart Association Sunday.

A nationwide study by 12 scientists showed that most areas with high death rates from stroke are in the Southeast, while low and intermediate rates are widely distributed across most of the country.

The physicians told a scientific session of the association's 40th annual meeting the reason for the difference in rates is not known. But Dr. Nemat Borhani of the California Health Department said a study is underway of all factors which could cause the difference.

'Varies Markedly'
"The death rate from stroke varies markedly from one area to another," he said. "For instance, the rate per 100,000 population is 50 to 59 in areas of Colorado and jumps to 240 to 249 in parts of South Carolina."

The study involved stroke death rates in nine geographical areas — three of low rates, three of intermediate rates and three of high rates.

The regions selected ranged from Flint Hills, Kan., with a rate of 82 per 100,000 population and Denver, Colo., with 83 to North Carolina's rate of 203, Chatham County, Ga., 206, and Pee Dee, S.C., 248.

The purpose of the study, the physicians said, was to determine whether the differences were "an accurate measure of an increased incidence of cerebrovascular disease among residents of the southeastern United States."

Dr. Borhani said the federally-financed study, started last year, first sought to determine if variance in stroke death rates were due to differences in reporting of causes of death.

The study found the rates were not due to the way coroners or medical examiners write their death certificates. "So for the first time we were able to establish that people live longer in one area than they do in another," Dr. Borhani said.

Regional Lines
Regional differences were based on deaths in 1965 and early 1966 among men and women aged 45-47. The variance for women followed the same regional lines, but the differences were not as great. The death rate from several other causes was also higher in areas with high stroke death rates, the study showed. The diseases included coronary artery disease, high blood pressure and diabetes.

Other reports to the meeting said the subnormal heart functioning often associated with alcoholism was due to alcohol itself and not malnutrition or other problems that go along with drinking.

Dead Sea Scroll Is Longest, Tells Israelite Defense Plan

Jerusalem (AP) — The longest Dead Sea Scroll ever found — 28 feet — is now in Israeli possession, one of Israel's foremost archeologists has announced.

Prof. Ygal Yadin says the scroll, "unique in its contents," was discovered in the place of the Qumran sect in the Judean Desert, where the other Hebrew-written, 2,000-year-old Dead Sea scrolls were discovered.

Among other things, the scroll, on very fine parchment, gives details of how Israel was to defend itself against foreign invaders.

Prof. Yadin, addressing a session of the Israel Exploration Society congress, said the 28 feet take in all fragments and incomplete columns of the scroll, The Isaiah Scroll, at 23 feet, had up to now been considered the longest scroll in existence. It is kept in the Shrine of the Book at the Israel Museum in Jerusalem.

Election Decides Fate Of Building Already Started

Festus, Mo. — Voters in Festus are being asked to vote Tuesday on a bond issue for a new library that is already being built.

The proposal for a $65,000 building needs a two-thirds majority. Construction workers are hoping the measure is passed so they can be paid.

On April 4 the new library was approved by a 1,003 to 406 vote, but the results of the election were voided because the legal notices for it did not conform to state law.

Before the error was discovered, the contracts were let and work on the foundation has begun.

Lincoln Man, 21, Suffers Injuries In Automobile Crash

A 21-year-old Lincoln man suffered injuries in an automobile accident early Sunday morning, police said.

Richard Vosteen of 140 S. 27th was taken to Lincoln General Hospital after the car he was driving went out of control and struck a parked car on

Doane Collegian Dies Week After Balcony Mishap

A 21-year-old Doane Collegian student, hospitalized since a fall from a dormitory balcony during the college's homecoming weekend last week, died Sunday of injuries sustained in the one-story plunge, Crete officials reported.

Officials said that Vernon K. York of Alliance told his companions immediately after the fall that he had been unhurt, but had complained of pain several hours later and was taken to the hospital.

York is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jewell V. York of Alhaim; one brother, Randy, a student at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln; and two sisters, Mrs. Bill (Linda) Carrell of Denver and Mrs. Joel (Charlotte) Rahm of Millard.

sadors is expected before the end of this year.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser gave assent to reopening embassies in London and Cairo in talks with Sir Harold Beeley, Britain's special envoy who came here a week ago for talks aimed at this objective. Sir Harold few back to London Sunday.

During the talks both governments showed a basic desire to restore relations. However, they are reluctant to appear being in great haste, and a formal announcement may not come for several days.

Foreign Secretary Criticized

British Foreign Secretary George Brown has been under criticism from political opponents and also from Israeli officials for showing too much enthusiasm for a political settlement in the Middle East by the Arabs. Nasser at the same time is under pressure from socialist Arab leaders in Algeria, Syria and Iraq to resist British "imperialist" offers of friendship and help.

Britain's primary motive is to put herself in a position to persuade Nasser to reopen the Suez Canal. In Cairo, Sir Harold pointed out that Britain's economy is suffering because it has been denied the benefit of shipping through the canal since the war last June.

Diplomatic Channel

The U.A.R. in turn hopes to use Britain as a diplomatic channel to the United Nations and to Washington. Sir Harold was reminded that without powerful support from both Britain and the United States there can be no political settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict. And without this settlement, Egyptian officials argued the canal cannot be reopened.

Other issues were discussed, including the withdrawal of British forces from Aden and the evacuation of Egyptian forces from Yemen. Britain is pressing for the formation of a coalition of Nationalist groups to form a caretaker government in Aden to take over from the British in January. Nasser has been trying without success to bring two badly split nationalist factions together.

Sir Harold also asked for the release of four British vessels and crews stranded in the Suez Canal's bitter lakes since the war. He received little encouragement for the present. An American vessel is also locked in the lakes.

HERE'S MUD IN YOUR EYE

This is the look of a champion mud bather. Fran Blitman a University of Miami coed from New York City, beat out other college girls during Sigma Chi's Derby Day by retrieving the most pennies from a mud bath. But Fran, who was well scrubbed when she arrived for the festivities, says you just need playing dirty to win cleanly.

Steel Haulers Reject Compromise

Pittsburgh — Western Pennsylvania's militant steel haulers overwhelmingly rejected Sunday compromise proposals for ending their nine-week-old strike.

Although warned that rejection of the proposals would mean a long, hard and possibly endless struggle, the 800 men shouted and hollered in approval when speakers mentioned staying out forever.

The vote, which was 462 against the 341 in favor, will be totaled with the votes of all steel haulers in eight states. All drivers will go back to work or stay out together. It will take a 60% favorable vote for them to climb back into their cabs.

Antiwar Forces Dwindle; Pentagon Protest Peaceful

Washington — Their ranks thinned by more than 400 arrests, a few hundred antiwar demonstrators laid peaceful siege to the Pentagon Sunday.

A hard-core group that had spent the chilly night on a Pentagon parking lot sought without success to rekindle the sputtering protest that on Saturday saw thousands of youths charge futilely on the Defense Department's huge headquarters building on the bank of the Potomac River.

There was no repeat of Saturday's bloody clashes with troops and marshals that left 47 injured. In fact, most demonstrators seemed more concerned with arranging transportation home than in making another charge into the rows of military police guarding the building.

Except for piles of ashes left from overnight bonfires, the lawn outside the Pentagon's main entrance might have resembled a city park on a sunny autumn afternoon.

Some demonstrators lay in the shade of trees picnicking. One long-haired youth wore a sign around his neck: "I need a ride to New York."

At mid-afternoon Sunday, the Army said aerial photographers showed 700 demonstrators were outside the Pentagon, compared with its estimate of 30,000 to 35,000 demonstrators Saturday.

Sponsors of the protest stuck to their claim that 200,000 persons participated in Saturday's demonstrations, which had the official blessing of the North Vietnamese government.

At the height of Saturday's violence, a handful of youths slipped through a secondary Pentagon entrance but were beaten back by marshals before entering the building's corridors.

Otherwise, an estimated 3,500 troops deployed in or near the building successfully thwarted the demonstrators whose aim was to paralyze the nation's military nerve center.

THE GIRLS

By Franklin Folger

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

One horsepower represents the labor required to lift 33,000 pounds one foot in one minute.

Mobile, Ala., is the wettest metropolitan area in the continental United States, with an average of 63.18 inches of rain a year.

Only one polio case was reported in Alabama in 1966, compared with 695 cases in 1951.

Texas passed a law in 1883 prohibiting fence-cutting as a felony.

The top three cattle-producing states are Texas, Iowa and Nebraska, in that order.

There are about 140 different colleges and universities in Texas.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 4 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
